

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is an imaging component comprising a vertically aligned nematic liquid crystal cell, a polarizer, and a compensation film containing a positive birefringent material oriented with its optic axis tilted in a plane 5 perpendicular to the liquid crystal cell face. Such components exhibit an improved viewing angle characteristic.